

Dear CARMA Member,

As you may have heard, Judge Amy Coney Barrett, who currently serves on the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, was recently nominated to succeed Ruth Bader Ginsburg on the United States Supreme Court.

Last year, Judge Barrett gave a speech at Hillsdale College's Allan P. Kirby, Jr. Center for Constitutional Studies and Citizenship in Washington, D.C., and I thought you'd enjoy watching her talk for free online at the link below:

Judge Barrett's remarks at the Kirby Center were insightful and popular, with the video of her speech garnering more than 180,000 views so far. The Wall Street Journal even referenced the speech the other day.

CARMA Member, this talk is a perfect example of how the Kirby Center influences and teaches opinion leaders and policymakers on Capitol Hill. It's one of our many outreach efforts designed to teach the principles of liberty nationwide—including in Washington, D.C., where it might be most needed!

The Kirby Center also serves as a home-base for Hillsdale's students working as interns in Congress, the news media, D.C.-based-think tanks, non-profits, and other key organizations. Our new Van Andel Graduate School of Government also calls the Kirby Center home.

All of this makes Hillsdale's Kirby Center the premier place to study the Constitution and its impact on public policy in Washington, D.C.

I hope you enjoy watching the conversation with Judge Amy Coney Barrett at the link above.

Warm regards,

Bill Gray
